FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Ralph Bruno joins Propex as Executive Vice President

CHATTANOOGA, Tennessee October 2, 2009 - Propex Operating Company, LLC is pleased to announce the creation of the Performance Technology business unit with the appointment of Ralph Bruno as Executive Vice President. The decision to restructure the business into its own Unit with a direct line to the CEO lays the foundation for future growth and increased service to our customers. This is an important step forward for Propex to achieve sales and marketing excellence and maximize shareholder value.

Ralph will be responsible for driving the company's key initiative of business growth through customer focus with zero product defects and leveraging innovation and technology to ensure market leadership for years to come. The Performance Technology business unit will include sales and marketing, product management and development, as well as the financial analysis support for the business. Through customer focus and leveraging innovation and technology we will ensure our market growth in this business unit. This will also provide the opportunity to establish new distribution channel models for our products.

Ralph Bruno joins Propex with over 20 years of sales, marketing and executive leadership experience in the plastics industry. In his previous roles with Trex® Company and AZEK® Building Products, Ralph was an integral part of developing leading brands in the building products market and implementing business growth and development strategies from inception to maturity. With his proven track record of leadership and growth, Ralph brings the necessary skills to position Propex's Performance Technology business as a market leader to deliver value and create advantages for the company and our customers.

This press release and future press releases will be posted online in the "Press Room" section of www.propexllc.com.
